

Free session to help you navigate landholder agreements

Coexistence Queensland's Landholder Support Program provides practical guidance and tips to help you navigate landholder agreements for renewable energy development on your property.

Join us at this free, in-person session where we'll provide important information on your rights, obligations, and options in regards to renewable energy development.

Coexistence Queensland is an independent statutory body established to help address how landholders, communities, and the resources and energy industries can sustainably work together. We provide independent information about landholder and community rights when it comes to resources and energy development.

Numbers are limited and registrations are essential. Call us on 1300 548 021 or scan the QR code to reserve your seat.
